Fast CompanyThe 2015 Silicon Valley Nice ListFast CompanyThese people are referred to by credit bureaus as "thin files," and often they're in the dark about what's on their credit history and why it's so empty. In April, Credit Karma, valued at $3.5 billion, began offering tools to help these people by ...

Leer más: credit karma: Google Noticias